When Paul's Grandfather Was a Young Farmer

I had an interview with Paul's grandfather, Jack, about his life in Hong Kong 40 years ago.

Forty years ago, Jack was a farmer. He had a wife, a daughter and a son. Life was hard but he didn't like to work.

Paul's grandfather, Jack, lived in a small house in a village. There weren't any air-conditioners 40 years ago, so Jack's family used fans instead. Air-conditioners were not invented at that time. There wasn't a washing machine 40 years ago. They washed their clothes by hand. How horrible! There wasn't a gas cooker either 40 years ago. They cooked food on firewood. I think that everyone should be very hard-working!

There wasn't a remote control for the TV 40 years ago. It was so uncomfortable! There weren't any computer games 40 years ago. Although my mum doesn't let me play computer games at least it is invented now. Life was boring 40 years ago.

Now Jack is a hard-working man. He works hard to learn to use the modern electric appliances such as the washing machine, the air-conditioners and the microwave by himself. He also takes care of Paul.

A Letter to Zoe

14th October, 2019

Dear Zoe,

I am Ethan. I am studying in Hennessy Road Government Primary School. I would like to be your pen friend.

I live in Lai Chi Kok, The Pacifica. I live in a flat with my raging mum, my cheerful dad and my annoying little brother. The Pacifica has a nimble little playground, a clubhouse and a blue swimming pool.

In my spare time I do a few activities. I like reading and watching TV. I sometimes play video games too. I read storybooks everyday. I often watch TV on Fridays. I usually play video games with my brother Andy on Sundays and Saturdays.

Andy is younger than me. He is five and I am ten. He is also shorter than me. He is sometimes annoying and mischievous but he is also cute and playful. I love him very much!

Please write soon and tell me about your school life and send me some photos.

Your new friend,
Ethan
